CRISIS IN THE SOUTH AFRICAN CHURCHES.

That a life and death atruggle, auch as was carried on by the Boors against the British, would materially influence the religious thought and church life of the defeated and disappointed Africanders might have been anticipated. The expected the Orange State are at present passing through a serious crisis. The situation is described in an article by A. Schowalter, in the Christliche Welt (Leipsie, No. 21). from which we gather the following details: It is a matter admitting of no doubt that the determination of the older Boor leaders to enter upon the struggle with England was based not so much upon an objective study of the situation as upon a feeling of absolute certainty that this war was the will of God. In the spirit of the ancient Good prophets, these leaders, and notably Paul Krüger, declared that those who fall in trial this struggle die in the faith, and are a sacrifice upon the alter of God's glory. The struggle for independence was in their eyes a contest for the faith and for God. Even to the last hour Obristian de Wat considered it the duty of the Boers to continue the struggle against all odds, as a

> Beside these there was another party that did not consider the war as demanded by the Lord. Piet de Wet, among others. believed that the faith of the people could be maintained even if political independonce were lost. There were a considerable number smong the Boers who did not betieve in the prophetic visions and promises of the old conservatives, and who either did not take part in the struggle at all or submitted to the British be ore peace was officially declared. By the adherents of the Kruger party these men were declared to have been unfaithful in their religious duties, altho they were able to show that the prophecies of sure success in the name 2013 of the Lord had misled the people to national destruction. In their eyes the Krüger party brought about the fall of the

But the old conservatives were inothe majority in the national church, and soon after the war the question areas as to what should be done with those who had defend. ed their country so half-heartedly. Should they be permitted to exercise the same religious rights as those sujoyed by the men who had fought and suffered and lost all as a matter of religious duty The first synod held after the war in May, 1903, took action in the matter, and sent out . Pastrol Letter to the 'Unfaithful. The conviction was expressed that the struggle with Great Britain had been a battle for the faith; that the 'maithful' had committed a great ain against God and man'; and that 'they could not partake of the Lord's Supper again with a good conscience until they had repented and done better. This letter demanded what the old conservatives regarded as a minimum of satisfaction for the insulted religious and national feelings of the people, and it opened a way for the opposite party, who are practically oshracized by their fellow Boers, to enter the church sgain. But the latter did not feel that they had been guilty of any wrong, and emphasized the fact that the identification of the cause of the Boets with the cause of God was the great wrong that had been committed. The 'Unfaithful accordingly, in conjunction with the British authorities, undertook the organization of an independent Dutch church; and after two meetings hold for the purpose, finally accomplished their object by a small majority of 28 to 25 votes. The representatives of the old church tried in vain to check this movement. The schism in the national church of the South-African provinces is accordingly a fact. The secedere declare emphatically that they could not possibly have reentered the old church ander the conditions, mentioned, and are convinced that they were in the right and could not confess that they were unfaithful. The new church, which is numerically wenk, is toolied Nieurie Nederlandach Gereformeede Kerk (New Dutch, Reformed Chulch); and has been officially recognized by the Government. To be had in all respectable wholesale and reall program amore Hinses

No change of moment has taken place since issue of last circular; freights have continued torule fairly steady and not withstanding the Northern market (Newchwang), being now about closed and Saigon also out of aeason, good employment is still being procurable in various directions and the outlook for the near future remains good. Many enquiries are difficult to meet on account of the absence of suitable steamers, but some tonnage will no doubt be driven South shortly, when a large volume of business may be looked for.

Saigon quotations for this port are more or less nominal. A boat, bound back, has been fixed at 13 cents per picul but, as already mentioned, the sesson is at an ord and nothing much can be expected in this direction until the arrival of the new crop's produce. 🤝

For Philipp. ports, filling previously made contracts, a boat has been fixed at 32 cents per picul and there is room for another one or two but, after that, business is likely to remain at a standetill for some months to come, as in some of the provinces native tice will be becoming available again.

Saigon-Java, shipments are going forward by previously chartered boats, which, for a the time being, supply the demand. Rates are the same as before viz., 20 cents per picul.

Java to this, the enquiry continues; but the scare ty of tonninge has prevented business being brought about. Rates are u changed.

From Bangkok to this, no Charters are reported, but the outlook in this direction remains decidedly good and a fair amount of tonnage is likely to be wanted ere long. From Newshwang to Canton, there has been a rush for tonnage at the close and up to 50 cents per picul has been paid, but most of the chartering has been done up North, principally Local Co's. boats, outsiders having been almost unprocurable. Vory fair rates have also been paid for steamers loading up, both for Chefoo and Newchwang. Coal rates continue to rule steady at record and there is further demand. On monthly terms, four Charters are reported at fair rates. Sail Freights :- The American bank Rvie J. Roy has been sold by private contract for $10,000. Disengaged :- French back Bourbaki, 1,711 tons; French bark Empereur Mertelik, 1570 tons. Departures:-American bark E. B. Salton, 15th November, for New York.

Asiatics in Africa.

A Convention to consider the Asiatic question held on Nov. 11 at Pretoria was attended by two hundred Transvasl delegates, who passed a resolution in favour of prohibiting all Asiatic immigrants except under the Labour Ordinance, removing all the present Asiatics to bazanra, without compensation, and prohibiting their being engaged in skilled trades. General Boths wrote sympathising with the movement.

THIRTEEN DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE LIVER COMPLAINT.

BILE BRANS EFFRCT A CURE.

FTER seven years' martyrdom to the A ovils of sluggish liver, Mr Joseph Atwell, a Railway gauger of 8, Holly Bushterrace, Glyn Neath, near Aberdare, Walss, was recently cured by Chas. Forde's Bile B ans for Biliousness. He is a member of the local Baptist Church, and has many friends there who can vouchsafe for the accuracy of the following interesting state-

All my life, and were especially during the last seven year, and Mr Atwell, 'I have suffered greatly from the sluggish action of my liver. On a morning I felt languid, weary, and oppressed, and had great difficulty in making myself get up to go to work-not that I really desired to shirk it, but rather because I was altogether out of sons I had to avoid pastry and all beavy fonds for fear of indigestion and biliousness: and plain bread and butter with a small piece of mutton was my best fare. More would have produced fearful agony, and even as it was I was often unwell after a meal. My face was cover d with pimples and blotches, some of the spots being as large as peas. The delness which overcome me I could on no account shake of, and I was exhausted with the least effort. 'Last year I lost three months' work, and the winter before that I was stopped for a similar period. No less than twelve doctors in the Abordare and Neath Valleys, and one in Loods (Yorkshire), tried in vain to cure me. Bottle after bottle of medicine I took without effect. At Leeds, I have a son, who sends me the ' ceds Mercury,' and in that paper I noticed a report of a bad case like mine that had been cared by Chas. Forde's Bile Beans. I doubted whether it was worth while spending any more money on such an apparently hopeless case as mine was, but at last I thought that I would just try once again, and went in for a course of the Beans. I soon saw good reason to be grateful for the chance to try the medicine, for with the first box my hope revived. I felt quite different. began to want my food, to appreciate it when I got it; and to les! benefited when I had esten it. There was none of the old nauses after meals, and no nasty sense of fulness Of course I went on with the Beans, and now having completed the treatment lam in the best of health, strength, and spirits. I can sat pastry now without the slightest discomfort. At our Chapel tea only recently I ate as much cake and sweet at uff as any body, and it never affected me. I always get a thorough rest through the night now, and get up in the morning like thank. Every race of my old silments has despreased, including the pimples and the blotches. My thanks are due entirely to Chas. Forde's Bla Beans, which cured

THE NORTH RIVER DISTRICT, An Appreciation of its Scenery.

(From a Correspondent.) The beauties of the North River district in the province of Fukien are but little known to the ordinary traveller, who touches at a port here and there along the coast of China. And yet what a beautiful country this part of China is! 'Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile.' Travel where you may in the province the eye is charmed continuously by a constant succession of panoramic views of entrancing beauty. Truly, the roads are bad, narrow, steep, and in poor repair, needing caution at every step. But there are compensations. Though the climb is steep and rugged, the prospect grows more and more beautiful the higher one ascends. There is a hopeful exhibitation in the sir that stimulates like wine. accounts were adopted. Mr Pollock, as a matter of "ormality, moved the election of Sir Matthew Nathan, MajorGeneral Villiers Hatton and Mr May to the offices they had accepted, and the motion was seconded by Mr N Mumford and carried. Mr Mumford, the President said had shown a great deal of energy as Hon. Treasurer and he had great pleasure in proposing his re-election. Mr Gubbay seconded, and the motion was carried.

Mr Gubbay proposed the re-election of Mr Pollock as Hon. Secretary, Mr Haskell econded, and the motion was carried. Mr Pollock, in returning thanks, said that the greatest difficulty they encountered was that of getting lecturers to come forward. The Uni n Church Literary Club and the Y. M. C. PROTECTION OF ANCIENT RELICS (To the Editor of the 'CHINA MAIL.') Sir, -I have read with growing concern the constant reports of archeological discoveries and the desecration of the ancient pyramids, temples, &c., in Egypt, the Euphrates Valley. Ancient Greece and Italy, and the wholesale removal of Works of Art, sepulchral remains and relics, &c., to swell the collections of the Museums of
